ANALYSIS OF THE REACTION OF THE ORGANIC GROUPS IN THE POLYMERIZATION OF METHACRYLAMIDE

(1954)

THE REACTION OF THE ORGANIC GROUPS IN THE POLYMERIZATION OF METHACRYLAMIDE

The reaction of the organic groups in the polymerization of methacrylamide is a complex process involving the formation of various intermediates and products. The reaction is influenced by the nature of the monomer, the presence of catalysts, and the reaction conditions. The study of this reaction is important for understanding the mechanism of polymerization and for the synthesis of polymers with specific properties.
